Europe and International Department

The Europe and International Department ensures Hcéres is positioned as a leading French player engaged on the international scene. It actively participates in European debates and projects relating to quality assurance in higher education through international networks (European Association for Quality Assurance in Higher Education (ENQA), European Consortium for Higher Accreditation in Higher Education (ECA), International Network for Quality Assurance Agencies in Higher Education (INQAAHE), etc.), thereby contributing to the establishment and spread of best practices.

Thanks to its ability to draw on the experience of Hcéres and its access to renowned academic experts, the Europe and International Department offers a range of services to any foreign higher education and research institution on request.
